

HOW HONEST ARE YOU REALLY?

This provocative quiz may surprise you. Answer each question as honestly as possible. (Think that in every example you wouldn't get caught. If you are only honest because you are afraid of being punished, it doesn't count). Test yourself!

- 1. You find a wallet with $1,000 in it, plus ID. Would you keep the cash? What about if there was no ID?
Definitely not () I might think about it () Yes, I would ()
- 2. You're buying your lunch at the local café and pay with a 100 crown note, but the assistant gives you change for 500. Would you sneak out without telling her?
Definitely not () I might think about it () Of course I would ()
- 3. A man in a pub offers you a lot of cigarettes (or bottles of wine) at a very cheap price. They could be stolen. Would you buy the cigarettes/wine?
Definitely not () I might think about it () Yes, I would ()
- 4. In the ladies' room of a hotel's restaurant, you take off your expensive wedding ring and forget it. When you come back, your ring has gone. Your insurance policy doesn't cover this type of loss, but if you say that the ring was stolen from your hotel room, you could get some money back. Would you lie to your insurance company?
Definitely not () I might think about it () Yes, I would ()
- 5. Checking in at a nice hotel, you find a thick, new bathmat in exactly the colour you need at home. Before you leave, you could hide it in your suitcase and take it. Would you?
Definitely not () I might think about it () Yes, I would ()
- 6. Your neighbour has his cleaning done twice a week by an illegal immigrant with no residency papers. Would you ask for her phone number and give her some cleaning work in your home?
Definitely not () I might think about it () Yes, I would ()
- 7. You are selling your car and someone agrees to pay your price. He gives you a deposit and you shake hands. Later on, a second customer offers you $2000 more for your car. Would you tell the first customer that you've changed your mind and send him back his deposit?
Definitely not () I might think about it () Yes, I would ()
- 8. You are looking for a rented apartment in Stockholm city and someone offers you one. However, the person also wants $3000 extra under the table before she will give you the contract. Would you pay her the money?
Definitely not () I might think about it () Yes, I would ()