

“Will”, “going to” or “the present continuous”?

1. “Why are you working so hard at the moment?”
  - a. “Because I’ll buy a car, so I’m saving as much money as I can.”
  - b. “Because I’m going to buy a car, so I’m saving as much money as I can.”
2. a. “I’m flying to Brazil tomorrow. My plane leaves at 2pm.”
  - b. “I’m going to fly to Brazil tomorrow. My plane leaves at 2pm.”
3. a. “What will you buy Eddie for his birthday?”
  - b. “What are you going to buy Eddie for his birthday?”

Answer: “a CD.”

“But he hasn’t got a CD player!”

- a. “OK then. I’ll buy him a bottle of whisky instead.”
  - b. “OK then. I’m going to buy him a bottle of whisky instead.”
4. “Dad, can you sew on a button for me?”
    - a. “Sorry, son. I can’t sew. Ask Mum, she’ll do it for you.”
    - b. “Sorry, son. I can’t sew. Ask Mum, she’s going to do it for you.”
  5. “Why have you bought so many eggs?”
    - a. “Because I’m going to make omelettes for tea.”
    - b. “Because I’ll make omelettes for tea.”
  6. “Can you help me with these reports?”
    - a. “Sorry, I’m going to meet the boss at 11am and I can’t be late.”
    - b. “Sorry, I’m meeting the boss at 11am and I can’t be late.”

7. a. "What will you do today?"

b. "What are you going to do today?"

a. "It's Sarah's birthday tomorrow, so I'm going to bake a cake for her."

b. "It's Sarah's birthday tomorrow, so I'll bake a cake for her."

8. "I have an appointment with the bank manager tomorrow."

a. "Why will you see her?"

b. "Why are you going to see her?"

a. "Because my wife and I will start our own business and we need some money."

b. "Because my wife and I are going to start our own business and we need some money."

9. "Sorry, Eddie. I didn't do the homework because I don't have the course book."

a. That's OK. I'll make you some photocopies this time, but next week you'll have to buy the book.

b. That's OK. I'm going to make you some photocopies, but next week you're going to have to buy the book.

10. "Shall I tell her that I love her?"

a. "Where's a coin? If it's heads I'll tell her, if it's tails I won't."

b. "Where's a coin? If it's heads I'm going to tell her, if it's tails I'm not going to."